

FACT SHEET

THE COUNTRY GHANA

Ghana, formerly known as the Gold Coast, is a country on the West Coast of Africa. It has often been referred to as an "island of peace" in one of the most unsettled regions on earth. It shares boundaries with Togo to the east, Cote d'Ivoire to the west, Burkina Faso to the north and the Gulf of Guinea to the south.

Ghana has several tourist attractions such as the castles and National Parks. Most of the major international airlines fly into and from the international airport in Accra. Domestic air travel is thriving and the country has a vibrant telecommunications sector, with seven cellular phone operators and several internet service providers.

Climate

The climate of Ghana is tropical. Temperatures vary with season and elevation. Except in the north two rainy seasons occur, from April to July and from September to November. Annual rainfall ranges from about 1,100 mm (about 43 in) in the north to about 2,100 mm (about 83 in) in the southwest. The harmattan, a dry desert wind, blows from the northeast from December to March, lowering the humidity and creating hot days and cool nights in the north. In the south, the effects of the harmattan are felt in January.

Temperatures

Whole country - average low: 20.5C (69F), average high: 26C (79F). The coolest time of year is between June and September when the main rainfall occurs. In most areas the highest temperatures occur in March, the lowest in August. Variations in temperature both annually and daily are quite small. The minimum temperature is around 23C (73F) warm and comparatively dry along the southeast coast; hot and humid in the southwest; hot and dry in the north. In Accra itself, there is very little variation in temperature throughout the year. The mean monthly temperature ranges from 24.7 °C (76.5 °F) in August (the coolest) to 28 °C (82.4 °F) in March (the hottest), with an annual average of 26.8 °C (80.2 °F). It should be noted, that the "cooler" months tend to be more humid than the warmer months.

Accra

The city of Accra has been Ghana's capital since 1877, and contains fine public buildings reflecting its transition from a 19th century suburb of Victoriaburg to the modern metropolis it is today. Spreading along the Atlantic coast, the city is well endowed with luxury as well as great value hotels, excellent restaurants and night clubs. There are a range of absorbing museums and fine public monuments, modern business and commercial areas, as well as busy markets and tree-lined residential suburbs.

The beaches of Accra are popular with visitors and Ghanaians alike. La Pleasure and Bojo Beach, just 25km west of Accra, are particularly popular at weekends. Among the highlights of Accra are the National Museum, with its splendid display of exhibits that reflect the heritage of Ghana from prehistoric to modern times; the National Theatre with its distinctive modern architecture, the Centre for National Cultural Centre, Independence Square, the Kwame Nkrumah Mausoleum; the fishing port at James Town and Makola Market.

The Kakum National Park

Situated 33km north of Cape Coast, Central Regional capital and about 170km from Accra, the Kakum National Park is a priority area for conservation in Ghana. The Park covers an area of 350km<sup>2</sup> (including Assin Attandanso Resource Reserve) with mostly undisturbed virgin moist evergreen rainforest. With light cotton clothing, long trousers, sturdy footwear, a water bottle, snacks, binoculars and a camera, the wonders of this vanishing leafy-green world are open for your exploration.

“Hidden Connections”: Provides exhibits that interpret the complexities which underlie tropical rainforest diversity, the interdependencies among species, and the numerous biological connections which make the rain forest a "web of life". It also highlights the cultural connections that the people of southern Ghana have with the natural world that make them part of this "web". Visitors have to spend time to experience the exhibit as it prepares them to enter the rainforest and to notice more of the scents, sights and sounds unique to the forest environment.

Canopy Walkway: The Kakum Canopy Walkway, Africa's first and only rainforest walkway, is composed of 350 meters of suspended bridge and six tree platforms that reach the height of 30 meters above the forest floor. From the tall hardwood treetops, 65m high, visitors experience a unique and spectacular view of the rainforest ecosystem and have the opportunity to see flora and fauna, which could never be viewed from the ground. Hundreds of species of butterflies and birds can be viewed from the Walkway early in the morning and if visitors are lucky, they may catch a glimpse of the Spot-nose, Campbell's and Columbus monkeys. The tree-top walkway and a multi-purpose visitor center, have accounted for the Park's status as an irresistible destination for eco-tourism.

Sun bird Trail: Visitors with a special interest in birds have a trail that is specially developed to incorporate three ecosystems: the rainforest, the secondary forest and a pond environment. Visitors can use this trail to search for more than 200 bird species found on the Kakum bird checklist - parrots, bee-eaters, blue plantain-eaters, hornbills, kingfishers and many more. The dense vegetation provides cover for globally endangered species such as the forest elephant and elusive bongo antelope, as well as various types of monkeys. Chances of viewing wildlife are increased by allowing time to sit quietly in the forest staying at one of the free-standing camps.

Note: To be able to sight more birds in the morning hours, delegates will depart from Miklin Hotel at 5:30 am. Travel time is estimated as 2½ hours. Please come along with binoculars and other necessary field gear (including a rain-proof coat) as appropriate.
