

Save the date!

'Strengthen spoonbill network towards North African and Eastern Mediterranean countries'

Djerba Island, Tunisia, 14 to 18 November 2018

Call for contributions: deadline 15 June 2018 / Deadline for registration: 30 June 2018

Working Language: English - Updated information on: <http://www.unep-aewa.org>

Target Audience: This AEWA Eurasian Spoonbill Expert Group workshop is open to network members and any participant with interest in wetland conservation. It will be of interest to staff from a variety of nature conservation organisations, including scientists, statutory agencies, NGOs, volunteers and students, particularly:

- Within the AEWA Eurasian Spoonbill International Expert Group (ESIEG);
- Ornithologists studying waterbird populations;
- Wetland Site Managers working on habitat restoration
- Staff working in outreach / public information functions – for example, Awareness and raising support for wetland conservation;
- Stakeholders in local communities.

The workshop provides a unique opportunity to strengthen connectivity between people involved in studying and managing wetlands for the conservation of spoonbills and associated waterbird populations. Our aim is to share information and build practical know-how about drivers of population regulation and ways to improve management effectiveness in habitat restoration. A special emphasis will be made to enhance capacity building within the network focus in stakeholders from North African and Eastern Mediterranean countries.

Organising Committee

- AEWA Eurasian Spoonbill International Expert Group
- Association "Les Amis des Oiseaux" (AAO/BirdLife)

Collaborating partnerships

- Tour du Valat and others to be confirmed...

Workshop Coordination

Hichem Azafzaf, AAO/BirdLife, azafzaf@gmail.com

Jocelyn Champagnon, AEWA Eurasian Spoonbill International Expert Group / Tour du Valat, champagnon@tourduvalat.org

Programme details, call for contributions, open registration, fees and further information will be soon published and updated at www.unep-aewa.org

Save the date! We look forward to welcoming you in Djerba island, Tunisia!

